THE WALL OF WHITE PINE.

Now comes the Ely Expositor asking that the map of Nye county be changed and the Duckwater and Current Creek districts added to White Pine county, claiming as a logical reason, that Ely is the practical trading point of both sections. Naturally we do not object to the Expositor trying to get everything for White Pine county that is possible but we do not coincide with their present state of mind. The county of Nye has long borne the expense resulting from costly litigation in the two sections as referred to above and we think that it is highly proper that the treasury receive some compensation on this behalf. Water rights that resulted in the cases being before the courts for over twenty-five years necessitated the county going to a heavy expense. Now the cases have about ended and the troubles have been adjusted. It is no more than right that the taxes be paid to Nye county in an endeavor to repay a small amount of the sum expended. But the Expositor would have it otherwise.

The annexation idea of White Pine will hardly bear fruit if presented to the coming session of the legislature for on the face of the proposition it appears simply a suggestion to increase the state expenditures of the coming administration and follow out the old line Dickerson policy of extravagance, which is contrary to the personal platform of Governor Oddie and also the state platform of the republican party.

Nevada has long needed an economical administration and the same will be received as soon as the next governor takes his oath of office.

THE RIGHT PUBLIC SPIRIT.

The campaign which the merchants of Goldfield are making for the holiday trade, backed by well selected stocks and attractive prices, is attracting more than local attention, and their generous advertising, as exemplified in the Tribune, a notable instance of which was shown last Sunday, is demonstrating to the people of the state and elsewhere that Goldfield is very much alive in a commercial way, and that her business men are the most wide awake in Nevada. The energy displayed by the merchants has a stimulating effect not only on their own business, but tones up the general spirit of the entire community and awakens a new loyalty on the part of the people toward the merchants of the town.

The new interest in the welfare of the local merchant is being amply demonstrated by exceedingly heavy buying of holiday and staple goods at even so early a date before Christmas, and this generous patronage is likewise demonstrating that there is a decided falling off in the usual mail order trade from this community. The Goldfield merchants can supply practically every demand that can be made upon their various lines, and are making an honest effort to meet the people upon a price basis that leaves no excuse for patronage of mail order houses. The general prosperity of the community as a whole depends upon a united people and keeping the money within the community instead of sending it away so that not one penny of it ever returns. The community is like a family or an individual in its money affairs. It cannot scatter its funds to the four winds without depleting the cash reserve of the community as a whole.

Therefore, by being loyal to the home merchant, the people are showing a logical and sensible loyalty to themselves by keeping the entire community on a substantial financial foundation. It is a question of all stick together and stand united for local welfare and prosperity. It is the genuine Christmas spirit of good will to all.—Goldfield Tribune.

WINNING BIDDER NOW WITHDRAWS FROM CONTRACT

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—Moran & Co., of Seattle, today withdrew its bid for one of the steel fleet coilers for the navy, authorized at the last session of congress. Its bid was for $987,000 and was the only one which fell below the limit stipulated by congress. The bid, however, was not accompanied by a bond and the company named its own specifications.
